Big Book of Animals Speedy Publishing 2014-09-30 Children of all ages love picture books. With bright colors and appealing pictures children are usually drawn to them and they're often the first type of book they can relate to before reading words. Seeing pictures of animals are fun for children as they are some of the first things they learn to recognize. Children learn to relate an animal with the sounds they make. A big book of animal pictures engages children with familiar images and helps them begin to recognize the concept of reading. They slowly will build their vocabulary and encourage them to start enjoying to read. Koalas Katie Woolley 2022 Designed to spark a love of reading, Reading Gems is a supplementary reading program that supports a child's learning at school. The books are graded into four levels to perfectly suit a child's reading ability, from an emerging reader to a confident, independent reader. Level 1 is for children who are taking their first steps into reading. The non-fiction themes and subjects are familiar to young children, and there is lots of repetition to build reading confidence. Parents and teachers can be reassured that children are reading books that support their ability, challenge their reading skills and encourage reading confidence with every word on the page.

Theme-based Nonfiction Reading Comprehension, Grade 5 Linda Ramke 2003 With the increased focus on literacy in the classroom, it is more important than ever to provide students with interesting reading activities. These reading activities should help develop students' fluency, vocabulary, and comprehension. This book has been written thematically. The use of themes increases reading comprehension skills by focusing students' attention on one subject rather than having to adjust their thoughts to several. The activities reinforce comprehension skills such as finding the main idea, summarizing, inferencing, comparing and contrasting, sequencing, and classification. The activities include a variety of multiple choice, fill-in-the-blank, short answer, and long answer questions.

Jim Kobak's Kirkus Reviews 1989

Making Facts Matter Margaret Mallett 1992-05-28 There is little doubt that this is a book to which I shall return many times. It genuinely does enrich its readers' understanding' - "Times Educational Supplement " 'Warmly recommended for teachers and essential for the primary school library or staffroom' - "School Librarian " "This is an illuminated and wise book, providing a convincing picture of the nature of primary school children and their work' - "International Review of Children's Literature and Librarianship " This book provides a sound theoretical base, as well as practical examples, on the use and enjoyment of non-fiction books in the classroom. Drawing on research studies from psychology and linguistics, the author brings together what is known about how children learn to read. She relates this specifically to how young readers become able to meet the demands of different kinds of non-fiction texts. She then shows how teachers can support children in becoming readers of non-fiction.
